

'Red' Leader Held In Poland Solves Wall-St. Bombing

Detectives Trail Wolfe Lindenfeld to Warsaw and are Alleged to Have Confession
Naming Gang Responsible for Blast

NOT DIRECTLY IMPLICATED

Promise of $50,000 Reward is Expected to Bring Out Entire Story of How Morgan Offices
Were Wrecked by Dynamiters

Washington.—The anarchists who dynamited Wall street in September, 1920, killing 37 persons, now are known to the department of justice. Wm. J. Burns, chief of the department's secret service, said Saturday.

The arrest of the conspirators, now said to be scattered throughout several countries of the world has been ordered, he indicated.

From a high source in the department of justice it was learned that Wolfe-Lindenfeld reported to have been arrested and to have made a confession in connection with the crime at Warsaw, Poland, is not considered one of the men who drove the dynamite wagon or planted the bomb.

He, however, is said to know all the principals and details to the plot to wreck the New York financial district, and it is believed he has been induced to reveal everything as the result of a promise that he would receive the $50,000 reward offered by the New York financial houses for the apprehension of the dynamiters.

Burns Saturday said Lindenfeld was the man "we have long sought." He said he believed he had been apprehended, but no official cable had yet been received.

According to information here, Lindenfeld left New York about three months ago.

Taking a chance that he was heading for Soviet Russia, Sylvester Cosgrove, Burns detective, who had long worked on the case and had been transferred to the department of justice because of his previous work, called for the Baltic states. After an exhaustive search of several weeks, he is said to have located Lindenfeld in Warsaw.

New York.—Additional arrests in the Wall street bomb explosion case are expected to be made within the next 48 hours by Burns detectives and agents of the department of justice as a result of the confession obtained from Wolfe-Lindenfeld in Warsaw.

A Burns detective operating for the United States government.

"The Burns detective agency has been working steadily on this case since the day of the explosion," Sherman Burns, secretary, treasurer of the agency, told the United Press Saturday.

In June prior to the Wall street explosion we had a direct tip that an effort was going to be made to explode a bomb in the financial district. I went personally to the leading bankers in Wall street and told them of the warning we had received.

Wolfe-Lindenfeld, or William Linde, as he was known in New York, was associated with the so-called "red" groups for several years. He is supposed to be of Polish extraction and lived in Poland before coming to the United States.

RELATE TO ANARCHIST
It has been established that Lindenfeld was related to Rosa Luxemburg, the well known German anarchist, who was killed in Berlin in 1919.

In New York Lindenfeld was presumably associated with a Slavic news agency and is alleged to have used this connection to cover his real activities in connection with anarchist propaganda work. He lived in New York and cities in the east for over three years to the definite knowledge of the Burns agency.

Most of the men named by Lindenfeld in his statement to the department of justice operatives in Warsaw as being associated with the Wall street bomb explosion plot are now in Europe, it is said. Only two are believed to be still in the United States.

New York's bomb squad which has been working on the case for a year Saturday discredited the alleged confession of Lindenfeld.

PEEPING PROFESSOR HAD BREAKDOWN, FRIENDS SAY

Chicago.—Chemists of Chicago Saturday rushed to the defense of Prof. Gerald Wendt, assistant professor of chemistry at Chicago university who was dismissed when he is alleged to have been caught peeping in the window of a bathroom of a girl's dormitory at 11 p. m.

A statement issued by the Chemists society declared they were confident there was no "moral turpitude" in Prof. Wendt's act—that he was suffering from influenza and nervous breakdown.

The professor's wife had left to visit her mother in Davenport, Iowa, a few days before. Professor Wendt is a Harvard graduate.

HINT SEA WAR IN FRENCH BID FOR BIG NAVY

French Flotilla in Mediterranean

Concentration Plan

IS WRENCH IN PEACE HOPES

Right to Build 10 French Battleships Makes U. S. and Britain Follow

Washington.—France is the new mystery of the arms conference. Her sudden demand for a navy that shall eventually equal that of Japan has thrown the conference into a state of nervous irritation. Great Britain doesn't want any neighbor to have a navy as powerful as that Japan possesses. For what purpose would the French use such a navy?

If the French plan were approved, it would mean that both Great Britain and the United States would have in the Atlantic a navy more formidable than their respective fleets and that all thoughts of concentrating in the Pacific would have to be abandoned. Britain would have to give more attention also to the Mediterranean.

In a nutshell, the request of France for a larger navy which some day would be even more efficient so far as new ships is concerned than the British or American fleets has started a wave of suspicion. Instead of thinking about the Pacific problems as future causes of conflicts, the British wonder if some of the many disputes which are arising over Near Eastern questions might precipitate a sea war in the Mediterranean.

CRITICISM HEARD

The atmosphere of the conference has changed completely. Criticism of the French policy is heard on every side. The United States delegation had hardly recovered from its disappointment over the failure to compel Japan to accept the original Hughes proposal when the French intervene with a plan that will increase the financial burden of France. It costs approximately $50,000,000 a year to keep a battleship in commission. To satisfy Japanese sentiment about the retention of the "Mutsu," the United States experts had to insist that two big battleships which were intended for the scrap heap should be kept in commission so that the increased expense of "catering to Japanese pride is about $100,000 a day."

On top of that comes the French demand for more capital ships. As a British spokesman pointed out Friday the proposal of the French throws a monkey wrench in the machinery from many different directions. In the first place, the French plan is to begin construction in 1925 and complete the building of her capital ships in ten years. This would mean a later type of ship than any the Americans or British will have at that time if the original naval holiday of ten years agreed upon by Japanese, Great Britain and the United States is retained. In order to catch up with France, both Great Britain and the United States would have to build seven more capital ships of post-Jutland type to be on a footing of equality with the French. Since the battle of Jutland a certain type of vessel known as a "post-Jutland ship" has seemed to render useless all big vessels built previous to that conflict.

BLOCKS WAR PAYMENTS

But there's another angle to the French demand for a big navy. Viewed in the light of European finances and reconstruction difficulties the French proposal is looked upon with considerable uneasiness in America as well as British government circles. It is contended that if France imposes a burden of approximately $500,000,000 for the new series of ten capital ships, she would be less able to pay her war debt to Great Britain, who in turn would be weakened by that much in her financial relations with the United States. Also, Italy owes Great Britain as well as the United States a war debt that could not possibly be met for a generation if Italy felt compelled, as she inevitably would, to have a navy equal to that of France. She has implied to France that she would never so act as to make it necessary for Italy to keep up the pace. The Italians say the building of new ships would be so much waste of money that could otherwise be used for economic purposes which would benefit the whole world.

PROBE DROWNING OF TWO CHILDREN IN CISTERN

Deonism.—With the finding of the bodies of two children in a cistern in the rear of their home near here Friday night, police Saturday are confronted with what appears to be a baffling mystery. The victims are Elmer Zimmerman, 11, and his sister, Ruth, 2.

TOO MUCH SCHOOLING?

Alderman Laake, chairman of the joint committee, presided and in the discussion that followed Mr. Harper's talk put numerous questions to him for the enlightenment of the committee. Alderman Joseph Mayer also took an active part in the discussion and while he said he was in favor of compulsory education he did not favor it beyond a certain limit and he was of the opinion a child could be given too much school training for his own good.

ONLY SEVEN MORE DAYS TO WIN NAME OF GOODFELLOW

Only seven more days until Christmas and less than one-fifth of the money that is needed by the Good Fellows club to carry out the purpose for which it is organized has been contributed. Out of a population of at least 5,000 people who are able to do something for the relief of their fellow citizens in distress, only about 50 or 60 have availed themselves of this opportunity to win distinction as Good Fellows. A Good Fellow is a person who has a heart and is willing to share a portion of his good fortune with those whose portion is misfortune. Surely there are more than 50 or 60 of that type of person in so wonderful a city as Appleton.

It hardly is necessary to again tell of the great need in Appleton for Good Fellows. All of you know of some family that unemployment, illness, accident or some other circumstance has reduced to precarious straits. It doesn't require much imagination to paint a mental picture of Christmas day in homes where the father has been idle for weeks; where undernourishment has brought on illness and where the cost of just the plainest kind of plain food has so reduced the family purse that the kiddies must go less than half clothed.

These pictures will not be exaggerated. There are dozens of families in Appleton whose existence is more precarious than even your imagination, given the widest latitude, will picture. Only yesterday a letter came to the Good Fellows club editor from a stricken mother which portrayed a condition that would wring the heart strings of the most miserly man in Appleton. The relief organizations which will expend the money raised by the Good Fellows club know of dozens of families who are living entirely on generosity and whose Christmas will be merely another day in their dreary existence unless Appleton men and women, who should be Good Fellows, open their hearts and their purses.

Surely there should be no hesitancy in giving to so worthy a cause as the relief of suffering at home. You can prove yourself a real Good Fellow by sending your contribution at once to the Good Fellow club editor of the Post-Crescent and gain that satisfying feeling that you have done something worth while. Let your conscience guide you in determining the amount of your contribution.

Want Parley With Mexico For Treaty

Washington.—The calling of a conference on Mexican affairs is being considered by President Harding.

The suggested conference would be held at some date following the conclusion of the armament conference and would take place either in Washington or some accessible place near the Mexican border, close friends of the president said.

Its chief purposes would be to obtain a treaty with Oregon by which Mexico would pledge protection of American rights and to grant recognition to the Mexican republic.

One reason for the belief here that a conference is to be called is the fact that all other means have failed. Secretary of State Hughes drafted a treaty and George Sumner, American charge a Mexico, City, tried to get it signed without success. President Harding then adopted the informal method of dealing with Oregon through a personal emissary who tried to induce Oregon to accept the treaty.

Both attempts failed because Oregon flatly refused to sign the treaty until recognition has been first granted. He declared that Mexican pride would not permit him to sign the treaty as the price of recognition and that the government would be overthrown within 24 hours if he did. Under Secretary of State Fletcher it is expected that Fletcher will leave the state department soon to become ambassador to Belgium and thus be personally interested in Mexican affairs, say they expect a change of policy to follow shortly culminating probably in the proposed conference.

Go Slow And Safe Is School Board Motto

Joint Committee on Junior High School to Await Opinion of Attorney General on Proper Method of Procedure.

Solution of the junior high school problem is to be delayed until an opinion on the legal procedure can be secured from the attorney general. This decision was reached at a three hour session of the joint committee of the board of education and the common council in the dining room of Appleton high school Friday evening.

Mr. Cullahan was unable to be present and sent as his representative C. A. Harper of the state department of education, who discussed the situation informally and enlightened members on numerous phases of the question. The meeting was preceded by a dinner prepared by the domestic science department.

That the difficult problem which has confronted the board of education for nearly two years will be solved by the new joint committee is agreed that something must be done to relieve the present overcrowded condition of the high school and while there is a difference of opinion as to the best method to pursue it is expected this will disappear as the members become enlightened on the subject.

Allies Can't Understand Why
Security is Not Offered to

Reparations Commission Demands Immediate Details
Concerning Payments

By United Press Leased Wire

Paris.—The allied reparations commission refused to consider the German request for extension of time in reparations payments, it was announced here Saturday.

The commission demanded, in a counter note to Chancellor Wirth that it immediately be furnished with details regarding promised payments, guarantees to be furnished in the meantime and definite information as to the delay which was asked.

Until these details are received the commission cannot discuss the German request.

The note, which is in reply to the one of Germany stating she could not hope to meet her January and February instalments, expressed the greatest surprise that Germany did not allude to measures taken to fulfill previous demands for payment.

SHOW SURPRISE

The commission cannot but express surprise in not finding in the note of Chancellor Wirth any precision regarding securities Germany is ready to furnish in lieu of the January and February instalments or as to the length of the delay requested or the security which must be offered in the interval, the note read.

At least, and until, the commission receives these particulars it is impossible to consider or even examine the request of the German government.

"The commission regrets the absence of any allusions to measures Chancellor Wirth has adopted to give full satisfaction."

DEMANDS WIRTH

By United Press Leased Wire
Berlin.—Hugo Stinnes, the economic czar of Germany, launched a vigorous attack on the Wirth government in a secret session of the foreign committee of the Reichstag, it was learned on high authority Saturday.

Chancellor Wirth, replying to the charges, declared he would ultimately seek a vote of confidence in the Reichstag.

Stinnes declared Wirth's acceptance of the London ultimatum was responsible for the present reparations calamity.

"We must remove the government of professors which has not been able to get our needed credits," Stinnes said, according to a responsible authority. "We must replace them with the great coalition of the Deutsche-Nationale and Social-Democrats."

"These parties are mainly composed of men personally able to give substantial guarantees for credits."

GERMANY TO BUILD ZEPPELIN FOR U. S.

Large Dirigible Afloat Will Replace Airships Destroyed in 1919

By United Press Leased Wire

Paris.—The council of ambassadors has authorized Germany to construct the largest Zeppelin in the world for the United States, it was learned here Saturday.

The air monster is to be built by German experts and will sail across the Atlantic when completed. It is to replace the share of the United States in Zeppelins destroyed in German hand in 1919.

The ship is to be constructed according to the L-70 model, the highest type of flyer and will rival the ZR-2 which crashed into the River Humber in England shortly before it was to be delivered to the United States.

There is some opposition here to the authorization, which will keep a large number of German technical air experts in training for the building and testing of the ship, it is said.

Boschert told of how a roadster stopped in front of his place and when he opened the door to see who it was, he was looking down the muzzle of a revolver. The man with the gun demanded food and told Boschert to carry milk and bread out to the car. The curtains of the car were drawn, Boschert said, but he could hear the men talking. Both Chicago and Jefferson county officials see traits of O'Connor in the slaying of the victim found here. They believe it was the natural thing for O'Connor to shoot down the man he had forced to add him in his dash for liberty after he had ceased to be of use to him.

French Blundered In Naval Demands, Delegates Believe

Lloyd George and Briand May Be Summoned to Adjust Tangle Which Threatens to Wreck
Naval Limitations Agreement

FEELING IS GROWING TENSE

United States and England Intend to Remain
Firm in Forcing Ratio Which Will Prevent
Building of More Battleships

Washington.—Lloyd George and Briand may have to take a hand in settling the startling situation stirred up by France's demand for a navy larger than Japan's.

This was indicated by well informed conferees Saturday while the naval subcommittee of 15 labored to get France in line.

The French delegation has been told by the other naval powers France must bear before the world the blame for any failure of naval limitation now.

This huge responsibility was shunted to French shoulders because of the French demand for a greater navy than Japan's.

The belief prevailed that France in the committee of 15 meeting Saturday would start to back down. Her stand is such a shock to all the other delegates that some observers believe an unfortunate diplomatic blunder had been committed by some one.

Feeling between the British and French has again become tense. The French now are charging the British with a breach of faith in revealing their naval program Friday and the British reply that the French are out of sympathy now with the spirit of the conference.

The United Press is able to reveal the manner in which France has been attacked in the secret meetings of the committee of 15 by representatives of the other powers.

The United Press is able to reveal the manner in which France has been attacked in the secret meetings of the committee of 15 by representatives of the other powers.

Arthur J. Balfour, six feet tall and graciousness personified, lost his calm smiling poise in scolding the French.

"They were standing up the conference or would do so if they persisted in building up their navy in a world ready for sacrifices in shipwrecks in order that Italy be told the date of the nation in the privacy of what was supposed to be a solemnly secret confidential meeting of the committee of 15."

Secretary Hughes has told the French that a ratio of 55-31-71-7 would be considered adequate for France. This would give France and Italy a capital ship tonnage of around 150,000 as compared to a replacement tonnage of 225,000 for America and Great Britain and of 325,000 for Japan.

Senator Schanzer told the conferees Italy would take what the conference allotted that nation though it would be compelled to build if France did. He pointed to the tragic economic consequences France's course would have and showed with unmistakable clarity that Italy is anything but sympathetic to the French stand.

This unanimity and force stunned the French. They had been presenting their demand for a navy greater than Japan's mainly as a matter of national pride and prestige, without the faintest idea of at once building up to the point even if their plans prevailed.

They replied to Balfour in what other listeners termed an "erasive" manner evidently pointing out their case was not finished.

Since Friday's session, there have been a series of private attempts to straighten out the embarrassing situation caused by the French policy.

By United Press Leased Wire
Ardmore, Okla.—Authorities Saturday endeavored to link the activities of a secret organization with the deaths of Joe Carroll and John Smith of Wilson, and C. G. Sims, Ardmore policeman, who were shot to death near Wilson, Okla.

In a statement issued Saturday, Assistant County Attorney Hodges asserted that Sims was wearing what is purported to be the Ku Klux Klan "uniforms" at the time of his death.

Murder charges Saturday were preferred against J. A. Gilliam, John Smith, Jeff Smith and Curly Smith, held in connection with the killings.

Authorities learned definitely Saturday that Carroll had received numerous threatening letters warning him to leave the neighborhood at once.

Carroll and Smith were shot to death at the Carroll home near Wilson Thursday night. Smith was said to have been a member of the attack party. More than 35 shots were exchanged between the Carroll family and the assassins, it was said.

According to advices to local officers, members of the party which attacked Carroll were masked. Officers so far have been unable to establish a motive for the murder of the three.

DISTRICT SCHOOL SYSTEM DOES NOT BAR JUNIOR HIGH

Board of Education Hears Explanation of Wisconsin Educational Laws

C. A. Harper of Madison discussed the junior high school proposition informally with the board of education following a dinner served by the girls of the domestic science department of Appleton high school at 1230 Friday afternoon.

He said the plan it was pursuing was the correct one and that the junior high schools were highly desirable judging from reports that had reached the state superintendent's office.

"Junior high schools can be established," said Mr. Harper, "with the same organization that establishes free high schools and there is nothing legally in the way of the board of education carrying out its proper plans."

CENTRALIZED SCHOOL

While there is nothing to prevent each district from having a junior high school if it so desired, Mr. Harper did not recommend this plan as he was of the opinion that better results can be obtained by larger centralized schools.

When you see a Robin Redbreast in these days of north winds and winter snow, you will not become enthused about the signs of spring if you are bird-wise. Bird lovers in the city say that the last family of robins went south shortly after Nov. 20, when they were seen hopping about in the trees near the Lincoln school. Every year one or two of these birds decides for some unknown reason not to make the trip south and so they sit about in the trees looking half frozen and actually being half dead. More and more housewives are showing compassion for their feathered friends by throwing bread crumbs and seeds out for them when the ground is covered with snow.

Mr. Harper was informed that certain city officials were of the opinion that if bonds were issued for a junior high school under the present district system they would not be legal, but he assured the board they would be, and that the official was mistaken.

Relative to the old cry that children are receiving too much schooling Mr. Harper said that an educated farmer can raise a better crop of corn than an ignorant one; that an educated mechanic can make a better tool than one who holds no diploma.

EXPRESS COMPANY READY FOR RUSH

Shipping Company Officers Issue Ship Early and Careful Appeal

Local express forces are making special preparations for the handling of the Christmas traffic, according to a statement by W. N. Kimball, local express agent.

"We wish to emphasize the importance of shipping holiday gift packages early," said Mr. Kimball. "This will avoid congestion with the regular traffic and insure their arrival on time. Our most important task in handling holiday shipments is to deliver them before Christmas day."

The express agent declared that the carriers ask the public to ship their Christmas gifts in "perfect packages" so that they may be safely and quickly delivered. He points out that it is advisable for holiday shippers to take special care in the packing and marking of their gift shipments, if possible, and with "all old marks erased."

Christmas gifts in boxes or cartons should be so reinforced with packing material as to avoid shifting of contents in transit. It is advisable to place the name and address of the shipper inside of the package.

This "inside information" often leads to the recovery of a misdirected or mis-carried shipment or one from which the address has been lost in transit.

The express company is distributing Christmas labels for gift shipments, carrying the words "Not to be opened until Christmas" which can be obtained at the local express office.

LOOK FOR RECORD CROWD AT SUNDAY EVENING MEETING

Appleton People Show Great Interest in Dr. Brannon's Address

If weather conditions are at all favorable a record breaking crowd will attend the People's Forum lecture in Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday evening when Dr. M. A. Brannon, president of Beloit college, speaks on "Cooperation in Industry." A great deal of interest has been aroused in the subject and in the speaker.

Dr. Brannon, president of Beloit college for four years, is one of the most prominent men in the state. He is a leader in affairs in his home town where he is serving as president of the chamber of commerce and a leader in other community organizations. He also is a member of the Notary and Kiwanis clubs of Beloit. Before going to Beloit Dr. Brannon was president of the University of Idaho. He also was an instructor in the University of North Dakota for several years. Dr. Brannon has won a nationwide reputation as a biologist.

In recent years he has devoted considerable time to a study of industrial and labor conditions and consequently is well qualified to discuss the intricate subject which he has chosen for his Sunday evening lecture.

Sunday's program will open promptly at 7:30 with a brief musical service arranged by Carl J. Waterman, dean of Lawrence conservatory. A silver collection will be taken to defray expenses of the lecture.

The company has been entirely outfitted with new costumes and scenery. They will change the comedy nightly and prices will be popular.

Favor Gas Tax To Raise Money For Work On Roads

Cost of highway construction and maintenance should be shouldered more by owners of motor vehicles who are more directly benefited. That apparently is the sentiment of the general public, especially those who drive on the highways only occasionally. Many schemes along this line have been proposed; the most recent was to place a tax on the gasoline used by the consumer. In this way it was suggested that the vehicle owner who bought more gasoline would pay more toward the upkeep of the roads.

"We are taxed to the limit and I would not advocate a tax on gasoline used by the consumer," said Oscar Kunitz, local taxi operator. It is not possible to take care of the tax collections without considerable bookkeeping and might mean the employment of a bookkeeper in my business to do that work. Persons running cars have plenty of taxes now and an additional tax would not be approved by the vehicle owning public," he said.

A. Wilton, auto dealer, says that while he has not given the plan much thought he would personally favor such a tax but said he would not make a definite statement without consulting other auto owners who would be paying the bill. He said he was serving the public and thought public sentiment should be taken into consideration before anything of that nature takes the form of a law. Mr. Wilton declared a tax that would make the heaviest users of the highways pay more taxes for the maintenance of the roads would be fair.

"Taxing motor vehicle owners who use the roads is a splendid idea because the person driving more and buying more gasoline is the one who should pay more for the upkeep of the roads," said August Brandt, auto dealer. "This proposed new tax would not be a good one unless other taxes the auto owner now pays are decreased. The truck owner would have to pay more than the person with lighter cars and it should be that way because trucks tear up the roads."

Drivers who use more gasoline than others should be made to pay a bigger share of the road construction and maintenance tax if some of the other taxes assessed against the owners of cars are reduced, said J. T. McCann, auto dealer.

There are 11 states now imposing a tax on gasoline consumption and it seems to be working out well where it has been tried.

OSHKOSH ABANDONS PEOPLE'S FORUM
Lack of Interest is One of Reasons for Giving up Public Forum

Oshkosh this year will not have a people's forum, similar to one conducted in Appleton, because of a deficit of $400 incurred last year, it has been announced. Decision to abandon the forum plan was reached only a few days ago.

Last year Oshkosh and Appleton worked together in arranging the forum program. Speakers were secured for the two cities, talking in Oshkosh in the afternoon and in Appleton in the evening. The crowds were small and collections were meagre with the result that this year it was decided to go without the forum.

Now that it has been definitely decided that there will be no public meetings a definite demand for them has arisen, it is said. Persons who made up the deficit are willing to again pledge a sum of money if the plan is revived but it was decided that perhaps a "vacation" of a year will definitely show Oshkosh people what they are missing.

While Appleton is not facing the financial problem in so acute a manner as Oshkosh still there exists the necessity of creating more interest. Members of the forum committee have suggested that persons who are attending the forum meetings and appreciate them show their interest by inducing their friends to attend. Larger crowds mean larger collections and less danger of incurring a large deficit, they say.

NO MORE TAXES ON SMALL POWER BOATS

Taxes on motor boats under 32 feet in length will not be collectable after July 1, 1922, according to a tax bulletin received in the city. All boats having a net tonnage of five tons will still be subject to a tax of $10. The new ruling will affect about 95 per cent of the boats used on the Fox river as there are only a few boats of more than five tons. This news undoubtedly will please motorboat owners as the excessive tax on small boats chilled their enthusiasm to such an extent that they kept their boats out of the water.

This spring will undoubtedly see greater activity in boating circles, it was said. All boats subjects to taxes have their tax paid up to June 30, 1922. The new law goes into effect the following day, and no more taxes will be exacted.

A special meeting of all of the beekeepers of Outagamie county will be held Wednesday, Dec. 21 in the city hall under the auspices of the agriculture and home economics division of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. Whitehead, extension apiculturist, will represent the state and will discuss topics of outstanding importance to the beekeeper.

Never before have the Wisconsin beekeepers been confronted so forcibly with the problem of cooperation, he said.

Beekeepers Facing Serious Problem, State Apiculturist Says

A special meeting of all of the beekeepers of Outagamie county will be held Wednesday, Dec. 21 in the city hall under the auspices of the agriculture and home economics division of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. Two sessions will be held, one at 10 o'clock in the morning and the other at 1:30 in the afternoon. H. L. Whitehead, extension apiculturist, will represent the state and will discuss topics of outstanding importance to the beekeeper.

Never before have the Wisconsin beekeepers been confronted so forcibly with the problem of cooperation, he said.

said. With cheaper grades of honey from other localities selling for less money than it costs the Wisconsin beekeeper to produce his superior product, he is faced with a serious problem. At the present time the value of the honey crop is about one and one-half million dollars annually. It is possible to increase this to twenty million dollars a year. The amount of this increase will depend directly upon the number of beekeepers who will join themselves together and work for the betterment of the industry. Mr. Whitehead declared in his call for the meeting.

AN AMERICAN DUTY

In the last five years conflagrations have burned over tracts aggregating 56,488,000 acres, or an area more than equal to that of Ohio and Pennsylvania combined, and destroyed an estimated amount of timber sufficient to build a double row of five room frame houses reaching all the way from New York to Chicago.

In money value this loss represents a deprivation to the nation's business in excess of $500,000,000. Most of it is preventable. Practically all of it is chargeable to American carelessness. The daily papers of this country print each year a strip of paper, made from wood pulp, 40,000,000 miles long and as wide as the regulation news sheet. The sun is only 92,000,000 miles away! Yet if we could have a space of fit land 300 miles long and 400 miles wide, this land could grow wood enough to supply the pulp for all the paper our newspapers and magazines would use in a period of fifty years.

In the year 1910 the total timber production in this country was 713 board feet per capita. In the year 1920 it had fallen to 521 feet, and Martin L. Davey, estimates that by 1940 the timber production per capita will be but 179 feet. "The end of the timber supply of this country can plainly be seen," says Mr. Davey, unless a vigorous national constructive policy for its conservation is adopted. It will be only a relatively few years at the present rate timber is being cut before there will be no wood left for construction and building purposes. Another phase of timber depletion is the wholesale drainage of large areas, many unfit for cultivation, which has resulted in the killing of great forests through depriving them of an adequate water supply. The wiping out of our timber is also destroying our wild animal life and ultimately if it continues we shall be without game.

There is now pending before congress a measure known as the Snell bill which appropriates $1,000,000 annually for five years for reforesting denuded lands in the national forests. The plan covered in this bill has been worked out by professional foresters and is approved by organizations interested in forest conservation. As the average cost of planting is approximately $10 per acre this appropriation would provide for reforesting about 100,000 acres a year. A better program, and one which this country is amply able to support, would be to plant 1,000,000 acres a year for an indefinite period. However, the Snell bill is a beginning in the right direction and congress should have no hesitation in passing it. It represents an expenditure which is the embodiment of economy, and that is what the administration is seeking.

To protect and scientifically develop forests and plant lands most suitable for tree growing is an American public duty so evident that it should be unnecessary for conservationists to make the tremendous efforts which they unhappily have to make to arouse action.

THE ISLE OF YAP

Notwithstanding that there is no commerce to, from or on the Isle of Yap, leaks from the Far Eastern committee signify that the treaty settling the controversy over this speck in the Pacific was delayed over this most serious question. But the United States obtains equal opportunities, whatever they may be, with other nations, and one of the three cable stations. Now, the Isle of Yap will relapse into innocuous desuetude, save as a flag and cable station.

But Yap did serve a most useful purpose. It was one of the small clouds, in the foreground, that drew the attention of the Occident to the possibility of trouble and misunderstanding in the Far East. Yap was instrumental in making the gravity of the Oriental situation conspicuous.

FRITZ KREISLER AS A DIPLOMATIST

Fritz Kreisler, the violinist, should accept the post of Austrian minister to the United States. If his government would permit him to make a concert tour every season, this would be as advantageous to Austria as to Kreisler and the virtuoso should insist on having a contract—ratified by the Austrian senate—containing such a stipulation. Kreisler could afford to let the home-government have a small percentage of his net earnings, or the excess over his average earnings during the time when he was just an artist.

We have sent many literati to courts of Europe. Paderewski was president of Poland. Ilonors should be distributed among other arts and professions. Kreisler is acquainted with American opinion better than most Austrians. He would be, at least, a popular minister.

FIFTY YEARS AT SEVEN PER CENT

The $1,000,000,000 loan to Germany, authorized by the Inter-Allied reparation commission, will bear seven per cent and run for fifty years. It will pay the German indemnity for two years. The bonds will be secured by German customs.

Germany will have to pay seventy millions of dollars a year interest on this one obligation. That will amount to $3,500,000,000 in fifty years, or three and a half times more than the principal. And the principal will remain unpaid at the end of half a century.

Who pays for war? Who gains from it? Seven per cent interest on a long term loan will be a practical illustration to the German people of the burdens of militarism. Whether they can ever lift the load from their backs only the Lord can say. If they can't, what then?

HABITS OF EXPRESSION

President Harding is said to write all his speeches and messages with a pencil. He got the habit during thirty years of newspaper work and says: "I find that a pencil keeps pace with my thoughts." President Wilson used a typewriter, having familiarized himself with this instrument of expression in his younger days. He, too, found that a typewriter kept pace with his thoughts better than the use of a pen or dictation. It is a matter of habit.

This is an age of speed and the saving of time is held to be a matter of prime importance. Possibly in the case of men who rise to the presidency or to high positions in business the mind works better under pressure. While much is to be said in the favor of quick decisions, with most persons slow and deliberative thought is usually sounder and more lasting. It took Gray a lifetime to produce his "Elegy." One of Mr. Lincoln's masterpieces, his Gettysburg address, was a painfully produced document and one which after going over many times he was far from satisfied with. Fortunately, he had written something better than he knew. Lincoln spent days and weeks and some times many months pondering questions of state before he made his final decision. Most of his acts and decisions bear the stamp of greatness as enduring as time.

On matters of importance, with most of us, we gain by taking time to think the proposition through. Many business institutions, and not a few careers, have been wrecked by fast thinking and snap judgment.

Swatting the Mighty

General Landis of the Baseball Brigade finally got around to the case of George Herman Rubeen and fully justified the most pessimistic predictions. George Herman will lose his share of the World Series money and gets suspended till May 29 of next year, about a month after the baseball season has started.

But the most humiliating feature of this monumental case is not the fact that George Herman will lose some $3,000 and a month's salary in the coming season. The New York Club will likely make up the deficit in order to soothe whatever financial pains afflict the "Babe." The real agony for Rubeen must come in the announcement that Robert Neusel and "Bill" Pierce—a somebody nobody ever heard of until his name was mentioned in connection with barnstorming tour—will each receive the identical punishment accorded the Home Run "King."

To put the Great Bambino, as the epithetical writers call him, upon the same plane of punishment with two everyday ball-players is insult, piled on injury. Judge Landis evidently is out to "swipe" Thomas Jefferson's reputation as a Democrat. He is no respecter of persons when he fines "em."

Things You Can't Believe
India is showing off for that popular young tourist the Prince of Wales. In Bikaner the natives held a religious fire dance for him and he saw that spectacle which has interested and puzzled other noted Occidentals. The Hindus danced through the embers of a great bonfire. They snatched up glowing coals and put them in their mouths. Afterward they ran to the Prince to show him that their feet were not only unburned but were cool and moist. Members of the Prince's staff, suspecting a fake about the performance, tried to pick up the embers and burned their fingers.

Fire walking is as old as history. A hundred tribes men of the West have set out to explain it and failed. It has been done in nearly all the countries of Asia and in Spain, Bulgaria and some Pacific Islands.—NEW YORK HERALD (Ind.)

THE SECRET OF GOOD COFFEE

A reader connected with the coffee trade writes me that I am all to the mustard in my teaching that coffee well made and properly used by adults is a wholesome, healthful beverage, and desires to present me with some kind of highfalutin percolator and a special brand of coffee to make in the contraption. Maybe I am old-fashioned and "out" in my ways, but somehow I have never been able to make any heavy brew with a safety razor and I can't see why anybody should bother over a percolator with coffee pots so cheap, so convenient and so thoroughly satisfactory in action.

There's a little secret about good coffee that I fear I have failed to emphasize in previous talks on the subject. The peculiar pleasant flavor and odor of coffee depends largely upon a volatile or aromatic oil present in the coffee berry, perhaps half a teaspoonful in each well made cup of coffee. This is the pleasant odor that is given off when coffee is brewed by boiling or kept long enough on the fire to permeate the household with the pleasant odor—at the expense of the flavor of the coffee itself. Now, the secret I failed to mention before is this: The volatile or aromatic oils are more or less soluble in cold or tepid water, but not in boiling or hot water. Perhaps that is the reason why a better beverage is made by grinding the coffee immediately before use, letting it stand for several minutes or half an hour in cold water, with the egg stirred in, and finally setting the pot on the fire and watching to see that it is snatched off before it boils up, and serving immediately.

Now, my friend of the coffee trade, who wants to present me with a sort of burial urn to make coffee with, informs me that coffee should be "powdered" just before it is prepared and only hot water or boiling water used. The suggestion of powdering seems good—that would expose more surface to the solvent action of the cold water and perhaps give a more satisfactory beverage with a slightly smaller amount of coffee. The notion of using only boiling water is absolutely wrong, but I suppose percolator users really do not know what a cup of good coffee should taste like.

According to the studies and observations made by Dr. Philip B. Hawk, whose little book "What We Eat and What Happens to It" (Harper & Brothers, New York, $1.75) should interest people who have been misled by self elected food specialists. The presence of a cup of coffee in the stomach with food rather aids digestion, he says. To be sure, Dr. Hawk rather damns coffee with faint praise, but his findings do not jibe well with his faint praise of the beverage. The latter being perhaps the doctor's prejudice. Dr. Hawk is not a physician. Unquestionably some semi-invalids should not take coffee except by their physician's approval. No child under the age of sixteen years should drink even small amounts of coffee. For the rest of us a cup or two of properly made coffee for breakfast is a blessing from every point of view. But coffee that has boiled even a wee bit has lost something, for boiling extracts the tannic acid which is pretty tough on even the best of stomachs.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Way to Go About It

I trust I am not annoying you too much, but I should very much like to know just how one should go about using what you term the Karell regimen for reduction?—(Mrs. E. W. J.)

Answer—First you catch your Karell regimen. Can't supply that for anybody unless I know it is needed. You and several dozen others who have written about it have failed to show me that it is needed. I must know your age, height and weight.

Are Second Hand Books Sanitary

I am a lover of good books, but alas, I cannot afford to spend as much as I should like to spend on books. I have thought of buying second hand books, but have hesitated. Will you kindly inform me whether one is likely to contract any disease by using second hand books?—(P. M. P.)

Answer—No. Second hand books are quite as safe to buy and use as is second hand money—and few of us refuse to accept second hand money on the ground that it may be unsanitary.

Bow Legs

Is it possible to straighten my legs, which are bowed from the knee to the ankle? I am seventeen.—(I. S.)

Answer—Only by operation on the bones. Treatment of Nervous Breakdown

Please tell me how to treat a young man for nervous breakdown caused by overwork. He is 29 and in Arizona at present?—(Mrs. T. G. L.)

Answer—You should consult a physician for medical advice. "Nervous breakdown" is as meaningless or indefinite as an explanation of illness as "overwork" is as a cause of illness. If the young man's health is impaired, he should have medical advice and treatment, and not meaningless and soothing assurances.

The first traps, three, to occupy the new county workhouse were taken there by Officer Mike Garvey. The trio were thoroughbreds and were turned over to Julius Kuehn who set them to work in the stockade with nice new hammers and nice new stones. At first they were disinclined to work.

Genuine milk muffs at from $1 to $3 were being advertised by Hansen's Empire fur factory of Milwaukee.

R. C. Walker had just received a carload of earthen buckets and wagons which he invited the public to inspect.

The former members of Company G caught the Cuban enlistment fever and left for New York to offer their services to the representatives of the Cuban junta.

The Post appeared for the first time as an eight page paper, the change from four pages having been made necessary by the increased amount of holiday advertising.

A race of bicycles equipped with the new bicycle runners was to be given the following Tuesday at Shannon's ice rink.

Prof. C. O. Merica preached at the revival services at Neenah Methodist church the evening previous.

Harold Galpin and C. L. Marston went to Chicago to attend the Wisconsin-Carlisle football game. The Sherman house celebrated the tenth anniversary of its formal opening.

Undesirables But Human

By Frederic J. Haskin

Haskin

New York City.—In a few days, Jackle Schumacher, little 15-year-old criminal boy, must go back alone to Scotland. All of Jackle's family, who are devoted to him, live in White Plains, N. Y. and he hasn't a single relative or friend left in his native country. Nevertheless, he must go back. American immigration officials have said so.

Jackle's father, accompanied by an elder son and daughter, came to this country from Scotland soon after the war ended. Mrs. Schumacher and Jackle, with another boy and girl, did not arrive in New York until the early part of 1920. Immigration agents immediately raised an objection to Jackle's admittance upon the ground that he was a defective, and detained him at Ellis Island.

Through the aid of friends and the good offices of a Congressman, the family was able to obtain the boy's release by filing a bond guaranteeing that he would not become a public charge. Later this bond was extended. Still the matter was not permanently settled. The family was constantly haunted by the fear that eventually Jackle would have to go, that an immigration officer would come and get him. Several months ago, Mrs. Schumacher died.

The doctor who attended her said that her death was due to constant fear and worry over the fate of her son.

And now that fate has come. A general round-up of defectives was recently ordered by the immigration authorities, and Jackle is only one of a large number of forlorn human beings who are to be disposed of in the usual cold-blooded, arbitrary manner at Ellis Island. On the list of undesirable awaiting deportation are likewise mothers and infants who will be torn from their families now residing in this country; husbands and fathers, prevented by various technicalities from joining their families here, and mentally and physically defective children who are to be cast back upon lands where they no longer have homes.

The blame for this cruel and inhuman treatment of aliens does not belong to our immigration officials. They have no personal influence or authority and merely act as automatons in carrying out the immigration laws. Neither does the blame lie in the laws, which are necessary evils for the protection of the nation from large masses of undesirable citizens. But blame must descend upon a government which fails to provide the means to set aside the laws when it is seen that in individual cases they cause intolerable hardship.

RELENTLESS LAW

Even the Secretary of Labor is virtually powerless to interfere with the immigration machinery, once it is set in motion. The late Secretary of Labor Wilson went about as far as he could when he issued the following instructions to immigration officials:

"While regulation and exclusion, and therefore detention, are necessary in respect of immigration," he said, "it should be understood by all who participate in administering these laws that they are not intended to be penalizing. It is with no unfriendliness to aliens that immigrants are detained and some of them excluded, but solely for the protection of our own people and our own institutions. Indifference, then, to the physical or mental comfort of these wards of ours from other lands should not be a factor in their treatment."

That these instructions are not always carefully observed is evidenced by the numerous complaints that have arisen on that score. Indeed, they have recently become so vocal that the immigration officials are being urged to take action.

Q. What foods undergo a chemical change in the mouth? C. H. C.

A. Starch is the only food that is changed in any chemical way in the mouth. Starch is gradually changed into sugar in the alimentary canal, the first process taking place in the mouth. Other foods are merely ground up and softened, in preparation for action by other juices.

Q. What is the approximate voltage and amperage of a bolt of lightning? Could this be harnessed for use by man? R. N.

A. With regard to the voltage of lightning strokes, there are only estimates. These range from several hundred thousand to several billion volts, depending upon the ideas of the person making the estimates. No measurements have been made. The amperage of lightning strokes is more definitely known, a few attempts having been made to measure it. The best measurements of this kind show that the current intensity may be as great as 25,000 amperes. As for harnessing lightning and turning it into energy useful to man, no practicable scheme has yet been presented.

Q. How did the term "black mail" originate? D. L. S.

A. This term was applied to ransoms received in work, grain or bays money, distinguishing it from ransoms received in silver, mailings (mailing). Q. What state had two brothers for governors? L. O. E.

A. The publication of the fact that Tennessee has been governed by two brothers brought letters calling to our attention the fact that Connecticut also has had two governors who were brothers—Phineas C. Lounsburg 1867-1869 and George E. Lounsburg 1869-1891.

Q. Is there a machine used in the salmon industry that does all the work of cleaning, cooking, and packing the fish? F. T. Z.

A. The Bureau of Fisheries says that there is a machine called the "Iron Chink" which is used in the salmon packing industry on the Pacific coast. This machine accomplishes all the processes mentioned. In the salmon industry on the West coast Chinamen are employed extensively. When the above-mentioned machine was invented and found to be successful it was known as the "Iron Chink" because it did the work of the hands of many Chinamen.

Q. What is meant by a "dagger or pistol pointed at the heart of England" by France? J. H. B.

A. The expression "a dagger or pistol pointed at the heart of England" has reference to the loss of the port of Calais, which was a British possession until 1558.

Q. Was Henry Clay as great an orator as Webster? H. U. P.

A. While Clay ranked higher above Webster as an orator, Webster was an enhanced mutual understanding, of advancing judicial decisions rendered under an advancing law," as the NEW YORK TIMES (Ind. Dem.) expresses it. The ST. LOUIS GLOBE DEMOCRAT (Rep.) charges Mr. Gompers and his followers with attempting to exempt labor disputes from the processes of legalized justice by which all other ferous that the British Government, we are informed, has filed a protest with our State Department. The immigration officials claim that they do all they can to make the necessary hardships inflicted upon aliens and to abolish all that are unnecessary, but that they are handicapped by inadequate facilities.

In other words, the just and equitable treatment of aliens is prevented, according to one immigration official, "by the silliness of congressional appropriations, unwarrantably limited, in view of the fact that the income from arriving aliens in head money alone, since the beginning of the immigration service, has exceeded the total running expenses of the service by more than $2,000,000."

If Congress were not so stingy, continues the official in words to this effect: The United States would provide an administrative board at Ellis Island, which would be authorized to act in individual cases, considering the circumstances which alter each one, and lifting the penalty of deportation whenever the facts seem to justify such a course. Ellis Island today is like a city with a police system, but without courts. The alien who commits the crime of being undesirable for admittance in the eyes of the law is arrested and sent to jail (or deported, which in some cases amounts to about the same thing) without a trial by judge or jury.

A TYPICAL CASE

There is the case of a young man, for instance, who arrived at the island from a South American country. He had lived in the United States for three years, coming originally through Canada, and had an American-born wife and child here. His trip to South America had been made to see his aged mother, who was at the point of death in the home of her other son. He appeared to have every qualification for residence in this country, and was about to pass safely through the immigration inspection when one official inquired almost as an afterthought as to where the young man had been born. Unlucky young man! He was a native of British India, and as such could not possibly be admitted to the U. S. A. He was given permission to enter the country long enough to say goodbye to his wife and child, and then back to India he had to go, back to the land he had not seen since early childhood, which was totally unfamiliar to him and where he had no friends or relatives.

"Sometimes," says an immigration official, "a whole immigrant family is admitted, with the exception of one member—possibly a girl of 15 or 16 who is pronounced a mental defective. The family may protest that she is normal but shy and dazed by her surroundings. In some cases girls have been temporarily admitted through desperate necessity; once in the country they have demonstrated their normality to the extent of earning their own living; private life has been done. Having been officially certified as 'foolish-minded' or for 'constitutional psychopathic inferiority' their exclusion is mandatory. Let them get into the poorhouse and asylum at the public expense or become the ancestors of a line of American defectives, they must be mercilessly separated from their families and deported."

In other cases, where a very young child out of several in a family is found to be defective, the mother must be deported with it as an accompanying alien, leaving her other children here and returning to a land where she no longer has a home.

Incidents of this kind are said to be part of the daily routine at Ellis Island, and there does not seem to be any immediate hope for improvement. Yet many Americans continue to wonder at the ingratitude of our aliens, their lack of enthusiasm for Americanization, and their desire to take the dollars that they make over here joyously back home.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

The President's Industrial Creed

Probably the most discussed feature of President Harding's message to Congress is that which might be called his industrial creed. The PHILADELPHIA PUBLIC LEADER (Ind.) thinks "it may be that the most important thing for America, among the many important subjects touched in the message, will be his proposal for a national court to halt, hinder, prevent and arbitrate strikes." The SALT LAKE DESERET NEWS (Ind.) calls the proposal "bold," for, as the ITHACA JOURNAL NEWS (Ind.) says, it is "policy that hitherto has not been suggested in such a high place as the White House." At the same time, the BALTIMORE SUN (Ind. Dem.) is quite correct in assuming that "it will receive a rather mixed verdict," but from the press.

As we have "great bodies of law regulating the organization and operation of industrial and financial corporations—treaties and compacts among nations which look to the settlement of differences without the necessity of conflicts in arms," so, the President believes, we might well have plans of conference and common counsel, of mediation, arbitration and judicial determination in controversies between capital and labor." That, as the WASHINGTON POST (Ind.) interprets it, is "the fundamental principle upon which the Kansas industrial court is created," and it maintains "that with a federal law framed in this spirit, the American people would be relieved of the fear of famine and suffering which accrues at intervals." In a manner that is "tactful," but none the less "clear and to the point," the President makes it apparent to the SPOKANE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW (Ind. Rep.) that "the principle of the Kansas industrial court has his approval," and in taking this position "he trends upon sure ground so far as the public is concerned," for the DENVER TIMES (Ind.) is sure that "it will endorse to the hilt any policy which may be evolved to force the opposing camps in industrial warfare to meet in conference."

"As might have been expected," comments the WHEELING INTELLIGENCER (Rep.) "Samuel Gompers promptly attacked the suggestion of President Harding for an industrial court. But in his comparison of such an institution to the old 'slave tribunals,' Mr. Gompers is unduly alarmed." The GRAND RAPIDS HERALD (Rep.) thinks "if there is any phase of a properly developed industrial court which packs of a 'slave tribunal.'" The HERALD declares that it will join Mr. Gompers "in an entrenched opposition," but it is confident that a law which merely requires that industrial belligerents shall exhaust the agencies of peace before resorting to the agencies of war takes nothing from a belligerent except the privilege of going off half-cocked." Rather than "turning the clock back four centuries" to the time when the Court of Quarter Sessions determined the wages of the workers and condemned men to compulsory servitude and slavery if they resisted the decisions of the court," as President Gompers declares, the WASHINGTON NEWS (Ind.) holds that the industrial court plan is merely bringing to bear on "industrial strife" the "compacts, agreements, legal codes and arbitral tribunals" that are lessening international war. Instead of recognizing that such procedure has been outgrown in the modern civilization, "founded on enhanced mutual understanding, of advancing judicial decisions rendered under an advancing law," as the NEW YORK TIMES (Ind. Dem.) expresses it, the ST. LOUIS GLOBE DEMOCRAT (Rep.) charges Mr. Gompers and his followers with attempting to exempt labor disputes from the processes of legalized justice by which all other disputes in a civilized society must be settled," and maintaining "their inalienable right to the use of force" selfishly insisting, the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR (Boston, Ind.) adds, "that the policy of disarmament should not be carried so far 'as to render their weapon ineffective."

But, if President Harding really proposes "to set up in this country a national adaptation of the Kansas Industrial Court," the DES MOINES REGISTER (Ind. Rep.) concedes that "probably all of Gompers' skepticism as to its results would be justified." Brought down to its basic principles the Kansas plan, according

NEW RULE PERMITS SEALING PARCELS

Sealed parcels containing articles of merchandise can now be shipped as fourth class matter through the mails, according to a new rule adopted by the postoffice department. The new rule will continue to be received as fourth class mail which are not sealed, he said, and the only request made of the postoffice department to shippers of sealed packages will be that the parcels bear a printed label stating the nature of the contents, name of the manufacturer, shipper or producer and it must be indorsed giving the postmaster privilege to open the package for inspection if found necessary. Mr. Keller said the postoffice department suggests the following form be used on the sealed packages sent as fourth class mail matter: Contents, Food products. ## SCHOOL ATTENDANCE IS GOOD, PFEL SAYS

Attendance of children in the schools of the city has been excellent since the beginning of the present term, according to J. G. Pfeil, city truancy officer. There has been little or no absence from school because of the Christmas spirit. Children are not missing school to go after Christmas trees, and on account of the decrease in the number of jobs children do not leave their classes to earn money with which to buy Christmas gifts.

"Of course there are some who do not attend school as regularly as others but with closer cooperation from the parents we are able to report less absence from the classrooms," Mr. Pfeil said. "We keep close tabs on the children and all reports of truancy are quickly attended to."

Mrs. A. L. Leman and daughter, Dona, of Rochester, Minn., will spend the holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Schnitzke.

LENZ WINNING NEW SUCCESS IN GOTHAM

Bronze Figure of "Senorita Hootch" Brings Fame and Wealth

Alfred Lenz, noted New York sculptor and a former Appleton boy, has won new success in the field of art. The following article taken from a New York publication tells about his work:

"There are many beautiful ladies in paint, marble and plaster at the Winter show of National Academy of Design, but one who achieved the most pronounced social success is a tiny bronze, not more than four inches tall, bearing the title, 'Senorita Hootch.' 'The Senorita, by Alfred Lenz, is a gay little person, poised daintily upon one foot, grapes dangling her shapely head, more grapes clasped lovingly to her bosom with one hand while the other holds graceful clusters aloft. The entire figure is covered with a soft green patina.

"In anti-prohibition days the lady would have been a charming bacchant. Today, whimsically, miscellaneously gay, and slightly rebellious, she is a tiny spirit of the times and has captured the popular fancy as 'Senorita Hootch.'

"The original, shown in the Academy Room at the show, was sold almost immediately, and five orders have come in for replicas at $200 each, with hurry calls to have them ready for Christmas."

Mr. Lenz is the only artist who does his casting in metal from his own wax models. His process of casting in one piece has been accepted as the rebirth of a lost art, such as was used by the patients Chinese and Italians.

Mr. Lenz is a son of Fred Lenz of Appleton and a brother of Mrs. Herman Wildhagen.

Clock Goes Amuck

"A GOOD OLD-FASHIONED PHYSIC"

Foley Cathartic Tablets, a wholesome physic, thoroughly cleanse the bowels, sweeten the stomach, tone up the liver. For indigestion, biliousness, bad breath, bloating, gas, or constipation, no remedy is more highly recommended. Wm. O. E. ## GO SLOW AND SAFE IS MOTTO OF NEW SCHOOL BUILDERS

Solution of Junior School Problem Awaits Opinion of Attorney General

Young man with an education won't do it because he thinks it beneath him. Mr. Harper took exception to the statement and said the educated man with few exceptions is always the hardest worker and the least afraid of getting his hands soiled in whatever capacity he may be placed and that his training makes it possible for him to do his work better than the uneducated person. The fact that his education fits him for higher duties makes it possible for him to advance to more remunerative endeavors.

NEED MORE ROOM
The chairman inquired of Mr. Harper if he would advise the city to build junior high schools before adopting the union system of schools and was informed that perhaps it would be better. Mr. Harper said he did not know of any reason why it would not be just as advisable.

Alderman Mayer said that the joint committee was agreed that the high school needed more room but he was of the opinion that an addition to the present high school would cost a great deal less than the proposed junior high school and would answer all requirements.

WOULD AVOID MISTAKES
The committee is anxious to proceed legally in the matter and will avoid mistakes if possible. With this in view it will await the opinion of the attorney general which Mr. Harper promised to secure without delay. It is possible it will be here in time for the next meeting of the board of education which is called for Monday, Jan. 2.

The question which most concerned the aldermen was whether junior high schools can be erected without adopting the union system of schools which Mr. Harper answered in the affirmative. While the members of the committee were practically a unit in favor of the union system yet doubt existed in the minds of some of them whether people generally were in favor of adopting it because it would do away with the rivalry between the schools which has made them more efficient.

In leading up to the local situation Mr. Harper reviewed the work that is being done by the state in an educational way and said a peculiar situation exists in Appleton that is found in no other city because of its district system, but in his opinion, he said, that would not interfere with the taxpayers building as many free high schools or junior high schools as they desired.

He showed a map of Appleton pre-

NEENAH BOYS SENDING MUSIC BY WIRELESS

Music by wireless telephone seems to be getting popular in this section of the country. Following the announcement that Mary Garden opera company is nightly playing to fifty thousand wireless telephone fans, comes the news that two former sailors of Neenah, Cornelius and William Quinn, have succeeded in perfecting a wireless telephone sending apparatus with a scope of thirty miles. Had anyone in the thirty mile radius of Neenah been listening in with a radio machine a few nights ago, they could have "tuned" a Victrola concert. For months the Quinn boys have been entertaining their friends by letting them listen to grand opera singing in New York, Pennsylvania and other eastern states.

pared by high school students which showed the most populous sections of the city of children of school age, but the matter of sites for the proposed new buildings was not considered, the meeting being devoted almost exclusively to the best policy to pursue.

Leo C. Rasey informed him that phase of the question had been carefully figured out by George H. Packard, while still a member of the board of education, and that he found it would be $200,000 more expensive, covering a period of five years.

Mr. Rasey called attention to the inconvenience to which both the teachers and students were put by overcrowding of the high school building and said that something must be done to relieve the situation before the opening of the 1923 school year at the latest. The assembly room is crowded and all the recitation rooms are in constant use. The only way he saw of expanding is by lengthening the school hours.

In concluding his talk Mr. Harper said it is team work that counts and advised the committee to work together good naturedly and to keep smiling. He said he enjoyed his visit to the city and was glad of an opportunity to attend the conference.

KIMBERLY LOSES TO CHURCH TEAM

Last Minute Rally Gives Kaukauna Team Victory by One Point Margin

Kaukauna—Recovering from a slump after losing two basketball games, the Reformed church squad defeated the Kimberly Reds in a thrilling game Friday evening at the auditorium by a score of 20 to 19. It was a well earned victory and the winning margin was chalked up only 10 seconds before the end of the final period.

The church squad showed improvement in teamwork. The game started out like a picnic for the visiting team and the Reds piled up two baskets in a few minutes. Sager shot a basket for the church team and Kimberly followed with three more before the first half was over. At the end of the period the score stood 12 to 4 in favor of the Reds.

Kimberly players speeded up at the beginning of the second half. Their teamwork was excellent and it gave them an advantage. The invaders scored another ringer and a free throw before Stegeman made one for the local squad. With 12 minutes to play the score was 19 to 6 in favor of Kimberly.

Look suddenly changed for the church team and the players who had been tossing the ball everywhere but through the mesh, staged a basket shooting contest that ended in a victory for them by a one point margin.

The lineup:
Kimberly—Morrow, r. f.; Ruenski, l. f.; Breier, c.; Rosera, l. s.; Lowe, r. s.

Kaukauna—R. Schrader, c. f.; Stegeman, l. f.; F. Schrader, R. F.; Sager, r. g.; Hohmann, l. g.; Miller, l. g.; H. Stegeman, l. f.

Mulford's Clothing basketball team was defeated Thursday evening in Kaukauna by a score of 35 to 18. Although the boys are meeting teams beyond their caliber, their sportsmanlike style of playing is being commented upon by the managers of teams which they meet.

APPLETON WINS CLOSE GAME IN TWO RIVERS HALL

League Basketball Team Trims
Leaders by Score of 19 to 17

Playing a dazzling offensive game with wonderful speed on the offense, George Dams' basketball team pulled Two Rivers off the top rung in the Central Wisconsin Basketball league by defeating the Hamiltons on their own floor, 19 to 17. It was the first defeat the Two Rivers team had suffered at home in two years. Appleton now has won two games and lost two.

It was one of the hardest fights ever staged in the Lake Shore city. Appleton put up a startling game, holding the Two Rivers stars safe while it scored nine baskets and, one free throw. Two Rivers scored four of its baskets on free throws after fouls.

Stark scored three baskets in the first half but was held scoreless in the second when Two Rivers sent two men to guard him. Kubitz scored four baskets and played a great game on the floor. Basing, who played forward, added considerable strength to the team. Dams used Taylor and Kubitz at guard and they made a winning combination.

The first half ended with Appleton leading 12 to 8. Two Rivers showed considerable improvement in the second half and rolled up 9 points while Appleton was making 7. Next Wednesday evening Dams' team plays at Neenah and the following Thursday Neenah comes here.

Williams Loses To Dentist

Introducing Kid Williams, former bantam champion of the world.

This picture was taken on his thirtieth birthday. He has just celebrated the occasion by having most of his teeth removed.

No, the "Kid" had no fear that some opponent would knock them out. He underwent the operation after listening to a lot of expert advice.

Kid Williams still feels young and skittish, especially in spirit. Physically he has been feeling a bit seedy of late. His joints were sore after hard workouts and his muscles didn't respond to the still active mind.

First the learned men of medicine and the surgical staff declared that the "Kid" should have his tonsils removed. They told him that was the trouble.

Then another specialist said it was the nose, and finally a dental doctor said the "Kid" wouldn't be any good until he had most of his teeth removed—that they were sending poison into his body, and that when the evil was removed the "Kid" would be like a gent with a set of monkey glands.

And Kid Williams, like the owner of an automobile listening to an eloquent garage expert, took the various prescriptions and is hoping to hop back in the ring with both feet and whip all the Buffs and Hermans and Lynches in captivity.

There was a time when the "Uger man" could just about have done that trick in one evening but now we must wait.

"KID" WILLIAMS

wait and see what all these operations are going to do for him. He has his coat collar turned up to keep the chill December blasts from establishing a connection with the exposed nerves where the teeth once were.

Today's Sport Angle

Major league magnates desire that all minor leagues come under the draft rule.

This condition existed until 1919, when three larger minor leagues became dissatisfied and withdrew.

The three minor leagues to oppose the draft are the Pacific Coast league, the International league and the American association.

These three leagues felt that the draft kept them from getting a proper sum for a great many of their stars and also often relieved them of some player they were very desirous of keeping.

It is very easy to see the position of the minor league club owners on the draft. By keeping themselves out of the drafts, they are able to make clubs bid for the services of their stars.

If no club offers a satisfactory amount, it is not necessary to let the player go. Incidentally, if they are very desirous of retaining some certain player, they need not offer him for sale.

The rule is not so pleasing to the player. In a great many cases it prevents some promising player from getting a chance in the major leagues.

In the days of the draft rule, the magnates were always willing to take a chance on the promising youngster because the price was stated and was reasonable.

Now the moment a big league club wants a player, the price is set at about three times what it would have been under the draft.

The draft rule is a fine thing for the major league magnates and the ball player. The big league owner gets the player at a reasonable amount, and many players are certain to get an opportunity to show.

The minors, however, I refer to the "Big Three," can't see the percentage in the draft. The reason has already been stated.

Never was the draft system given a worse knock than at the recent minor league meeting held in Buffalo. For a year the majors have been advocating the draft. Yet after so doing, three major league clubs at the Buffalo meeting proceeded to knock all their arguments to smithereens by paying $75,000 for one player, giving $40,000 and a number of players for two pitchers and $10,000 and three players for one pitcher.

The Pacific Coast league, for the sale of four players, two infielders and two pitchers, will receive in money $125,000 and half a dozen players to boot.

Why should the minor league magnates desire to return to the draft? I ask you.—E. E.

WINTER LEAGUE ON COAST WAS FROST

Little Money for Other Players

When the Pacific Coast Winter League was first suggested a number of magnates protested against their star players joining the enterprise.

The league right off the reel enlisted Ty Cobb, George Sisler, Rogers Hornsby and Harry Heilmann as managers of the four teams in the circuit.

At first it was decided to put the matter up to Judge Landis for a decision. Evidently the magnates decided not to stir up trouble by preventing these stars from playing after the expiration of their contracts.

It was a very wise move on the part of the magnates. Such action would have stirred up a lot of trouble.

The promoters were forced to pay so much to the four stars, that the salary offered other players was no inducement. As a result only a very few major league players were enlisted.

Instead of having a lot of big league stars, the league was made up almost entirely of Coast League players. The fans didn't enthuse, as they had been looking at the same faces for seven months.

Now comes the report from the coast that the league will lose $45,000. Lack of patronage has been the cause. Prior to the season, the promoters took out insurance against rain. This has prevented a much heavier loss as thirteen games were canceled because of rain.

The Interlake

By Winona Wilcox

Just as some men enjoy getting angry, some women delight in weeping and wailing. As destroyers of domestic comfort, they are not surpassed by the male neurotics. Succeeding letters will tell what some of their husbands think of them.

Crawly Crab said he hadn't, and all the shrimps and prawns and whelks said they hadn't. And the sea-horse wriggled his horns and said he hadn't, and got so excited about it he spat purple juice in the water, which annoyed the fairytan policeman very much. "Say, there!" he shouted, "you'd be a fine one to hunt for anything, wouldn't you. You can help most by making yourself scarce."

The curfish said he hadn't seen any pink pearl, and so did Mr. Cod and all the big fish who went on long journeys.

"We'll have to search for it ourselves, kiddies," said Cap'n Penny winkie.

LAX BUYING SENDS GRAIN PRICE DOWN

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—Grain markets dropped on the Chicago board of trade Saturday, largely due to lack of buying. There was no marked heavy selling but the demand was sufficient to absorb the small offerings. ## SUGAR SHARES ARE HEAVIEST SELLERS

By United Press Leased Wire
New York—The short session of the New York stock exchange was featured Saturday by heavy selling of sugar shares and a resumption of the advance in the rails. Further cuts in advanced and in sugar prices accounts for the selling of sugar stocks. Lackawanna led the movement in the rails in prospects of rights in connection with a stock offering. These rights may amount to as much as $5 a share.

For a time the general industrial list was hurt by the break in sugar, but rallied fairly well just before the close.

Sterling exchange was higher. The market closed irregular.

Restless Horse Gives Clew To Illicit Still

A restless horse which set out on an unchaperoned adventure early Friday evening is responsible for the sentence of 30 days in the workhouse imposed on Paul Morawek, Second-ave. In municipal court Saturday morning for having a moonshine still in his possession. It hadn't been for the horse's desire to do a little exploration on its own hook Paul probably would be making moon instead of breaking up stones today.

Morawek had left his steed, unhitched, stand in front of a local business place while he negotiated with the proprietor within regarding the purchase of feed for him. Dobbin conceived the idea of wandering off and strolled along Washington-st. to the police station where he was stopped by an inquisitive police officer who searched the buggy and found a gallon and a half pint of moonshine concealed therein.

COMMUNITY TREE TO INSTILL REAL YULETIDE SPIRIT

Santa Claus Accepts Invitation to Attend Program Next Saturday Night

Appleton will not be lacking the true Yuletide spirit on Christmas eve if the plans now being mapped out round into form. To the Boy Scouts goes the credit for inaugurating the idea of having a community Christmas tree, with the trimmings and everything in Soldiers' square. The chamber of commerce and other organizations and many individuals are cooperating with them and nothing will be spared to create a real Christmas spirit among Appleton people.

Committees have been appointed to look after arrangements, music program, candies and toys. Santa Claus will be on hand to greet the children, who, he insists, will pass before him on parade before candies and toys will be given out by him and his assistants. Santa also insists the children pass by him in review so he can pass judgment on them before he makes his night tour to their homes with toys and gifts. And what's more, old Santa will insist that all those present at the celebration, for it will be a huge success, he said, sing two Christmas carols.

Two or three local ministers will be asked to give three minute talks on "Christmas" after which candy and popcorn will be given. It has been suggested that all old toys be sent in to the Boy Scouts to be repainted and repaired so they may be sent to the homes of the needy in the Christmas baskets to be distributed by the Good Fellows club on Christmas eve. Boys and girls are asked to report the names of all children who need toys to the Scout headquarters where they will be cared for. Another thing the Scouts ask is contributions from individuals to defray expenses incurred in the purchase of candy and popcorn.

Students Give Credit To Lawrence Boosters

"Tis a case of credit to whom credits are due by virtue of length of residence at Lawrence college. Certainly it is a case of class loyalty and brotherly feeling toward those who fall to make the grade that has caused a new classification of students on the Lawrence campus.

A group of three or four students were chatting with an alumnus and a faculty member when the faculty member in mentioning a prominent athlete said: "He is only a sophomore and will be on the team for two more years."

If his loyal classmate turned to the alumnus with the remark: "He really doesn't belong to the sophomore class, he is a 'campus junior'."

And the alumnus a bit baffled said: "Campus junior? Is that different from our old 'college junior' classification?"

"Yes, it is," was the reply. "The fellows and some of the girls work pretty hard for the college in one way or another and with some of them it means a sacrifice in grades, and with others it means actually failing and losing credits. A 'campus junior' is a man or woman who has been in the college for three years but has not all his credits to make him rank as a junior in the college. It is a term by which you can show the class to which the man is usually loyal even though he isn't allowed to vote in its meetings. You'd be surprised how many of the leaders in school activities could be regular grade sharks if they were selfish enough to keep pounding away at their books instead of entering into extra activities."
